

SOUTHERN HOMES[®]

MARCH/APRIL 1991

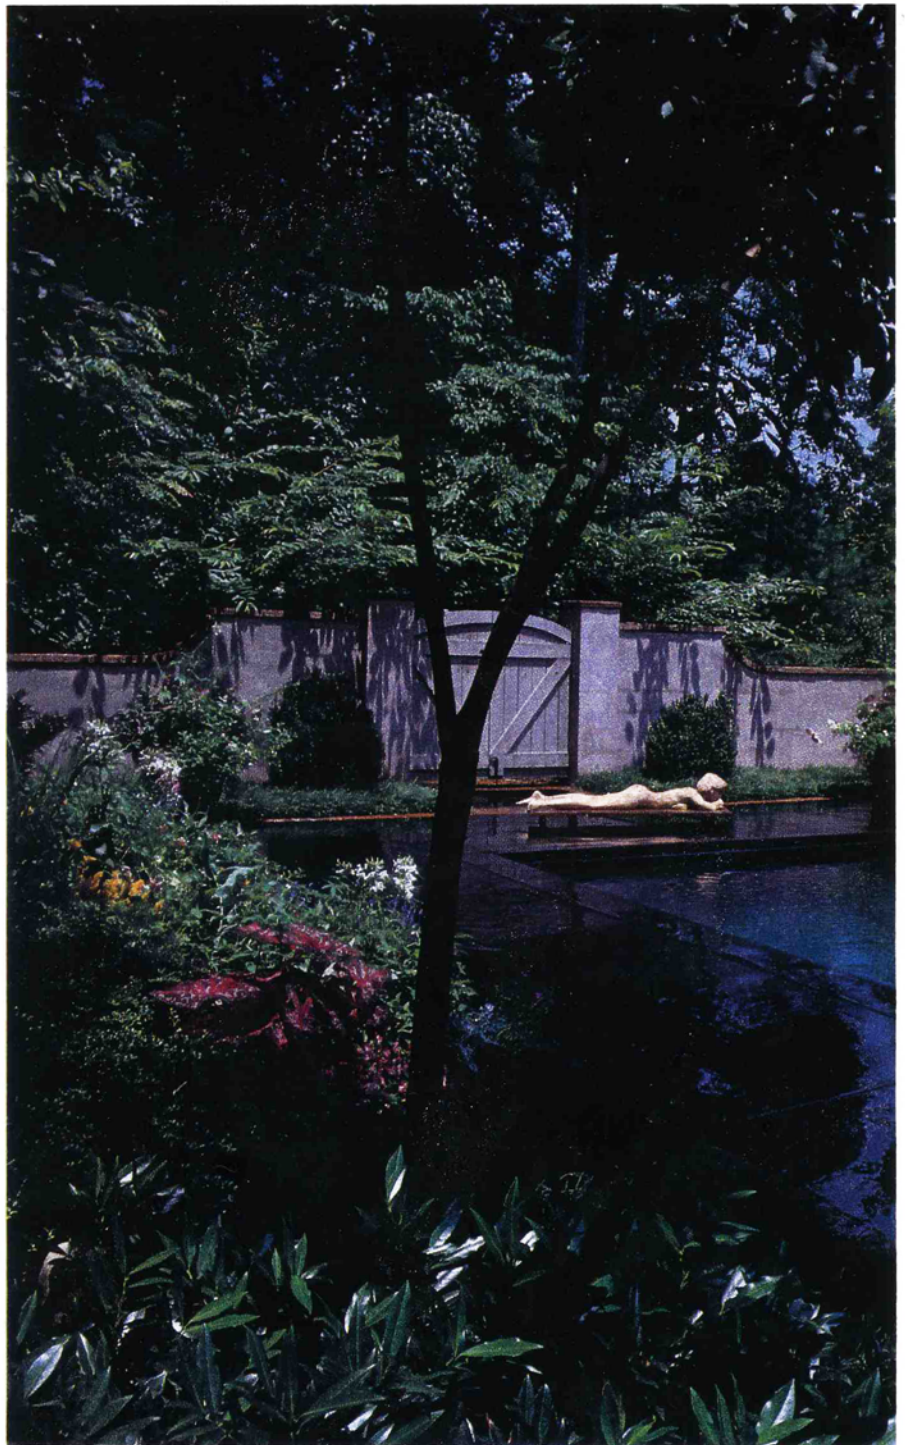

GEORGIA'S MAGAZINE OF DESIGN

FOUR DOLLARS

THE TOM BERENGERS
PLUS
"OUTDOOR LIVING"

Pink and white caladiums, blue salvia, yellow celosia and coreopsis are bright sparks of color in the variety of greenery used as in the Otto Luyken laurel. The attention-getting clay sculpture signed on the foot "R. Shaw" is a find of the homeowner. Landscape designer Bill Smith says, "I'm delighted when clients add their touches to garden spaces."

POOLSCAPING

That hole in the ground you paid lots of money for can be a blessing in disguise for your entire yard.

By Barbara Tapp

The broad side of a two-car garage was not the scene this Atlanta couple had in mind for their backyard. A nice but ho-hum suburban stretch of woods was another Atlantan's vista. And for a Dunwoody family, the ugly gully taking up a good bit of their corner lot was a sore spot on the landscape. All had different "before" conditions and requirements, but all wanted basically the same thing: a pool with a view.